About Plays and Players By BIDE DUDLEY

WOSEPH KLAW yesterday sent Violet Heming in Chicago a contract for a New York engagement. This in itself isn't unusual, but Mr. Klaw transmitted the offer by wireless. He represented the theatre at the official inauguration of the intercity radio communication service at the City Hall. At a late hour last night Miss Heming had not answered.

FOR "LOVE AND LEARN." It is announced from the Cohan beadquarters that George M. Cohan will charter another theatre in the Broadway district soon in which to house his newest production, "Love and Learn" by Vincent Lawrence and Edgar Selwyn. We have an idea it will be the Apollo. In the cast will be Waliace Eddinger, Ruth Shepley, Enid Markey, James Gleason, Margery Booth and Frazer Coulter.

TRENTINI IN VAUDEVILLE. M. S. Bentham informs us that Emma Trentini, now in America, will not return to Grand Opera, as ru-mored, but will be heard in vaude-ville.

THOSE SLOW BRITISHERS.

"Which young lady is Marguerite Clark?" asked an English steward on a Cunard line steamship the other day, just after a scene in a film had been "shot" on the ship.
"She's standing next to the girt with the gray stockings," repiled an American.

American.
"Thank you!" said the steward.
"But if I were pointing her out i'd say she were next to the young lady with the blue hat."
"You English miss so many of the good things in life, don't you?" said the American.

WANT SOME MONEY?

Do you like the finish of "Mideum-mer Madness" at the Criterion? If you don't, how would you suggest the film should conclude its story? Hugo Riesenfeld wants to know. Write your ideas down and mail them to Contest Department, Cri-terion Theatre, New York, He's of-fering $200 in prizes for the best an-

FOOLISHMENT.

The captain paced along the deck, He had a boil upon his neck, Said he: "This life is very drear, I wish I had a mug of beer," His men, who overheard his wish, Etood by in awe, like frogs or fish. Then one of them got out a horn, And danced a horn-pipe quite forloru,

By Way of Diversion.

By Alfred J. McCocher.

When yer gals is on a visit an' yer in the house alone an' the clock is tickin' like it's gona bust, you don't wanta read, but try it, bo, the foint scems awful quiet. If I've ever seen its beat note I'll be custed. Soon yer thoughts they turn to dreamin' of the faces that you love. The lights grow dimmer as they smile at you. An' the missin' ones seem nearer. Joys yer used to, stand out clearer. It's a cinch you got a license to feel blue. But the funny thing about it is, you got no right at all, fer soon they're comin' home to make life glad. Oh, I'm reachin' fer the minute. Once again FII be right "in it," After all, the one who needs 'em most is Dad.
